

The Official SIMON JOYCE Memorial League

ALMOST HALFWAY THROUGH THE SEASON, AND IT'S STILL ALL TO PLAY FOR!

This week of course half the league went off to Wembley to get rained on and humiliated by the Raiders, while the rest of you enjoyed a much-needed respite from my FB posts.

Phil and Jade took advantage of this psychological break, gaining much-needed wins over Lizz and Graeme respectively, while Holly still had hope of a victory over Dave right up until last night but was cruelly denied by whoever decided Kittle was better used as a blocker than a receiver. The less said about Tom's score the better, and I now accept the inevitable title of "literally the worst".

Week 6 Recap

Unluckiest Team

Queensland Quizards (Holly) would have won against

57.14%

of other teams, but ended with a close(ish) loss instead.

Worst Decision(s)

Queensland Quizards (Holly) only needed to score another to win, which she would've done had she played any other WR than Kupp.

9.59

Luckiest Team

Teenage Mutant Ninja Bortles (Jade) only scored more than 42.86%

of other teams, but this week that's all it took to win.

Shit The Bed

Bukkake Surprise (Tom) regressed this week and only scored points, which was roughly half of what he needed to win!

79.1
